Alpha Community Services (ACS), a branch of the Central Connecticut Coast YMCA addresses the needs of homeless families and individuals by providing emergency shelter, transitional housing and permanent supportive housing. The YMCA has a demonstrated record for developing creative and effective strategies that respond to challenges faced by individuals and families in our community. For ACS, helping to build a generation of healthy and supportive families through quality programs and services is simply a way of life.

ACS is the largest provider of supportive housing in Fairfield County and operates the only family emergency shelter in the City of Bridgeport. There are close to 4,000 homeless people in the State of Connecticut at any one point including 13,000 children in the course of one year. In 2009 ACS gave 892 individuals, including more than 400 children, a sense of community and a place to call home.

ACS is proud of its role utilizing resources to efficiently help those who find themselves in need - many from circumstances outside of their own control. In addition to a place to sleep, ACS' housing facilities offer case management services including job training and continuing education classes.
